Introduction

The setting is the upper room for the Passover Meal and is the earliest we have seen thus far. This episode centers on the pivotal scene of Jesus washing his disciples' feet in the upper room during the Passover meal. The moment becomes a profound lesson in servant leadership as Jesus takes on the role of a servant, despite the disciples' strong objections. Peter initially refuses to allow Jesus to wash his feet, but when Jesus explains that refusing would mean Peter has no place with him, Peter asks for his entire body to be washed. Jesus uses this intimate act to teach them about leading with humility toward both friends and enemies alike.

The episode also reveals how divine orchestration brings events together through Mark's prophetic dream about preparing the room. Mark's vision of carrying a water jug and the specific words spoken to his father come to pass exactly as foreseen, confirming God's hand in the preparations. Meanwhile, danger lurks as Kofni's men, accompanied by a Roman soldier, pursue the disciples, forcing them to travel to the upper room in small groups by different routes to avoid detection.

The episode continues to weave together themes of divine providence and human response as it shows flashbacks to how each disciple first encountered Jesus, highlighting how specific circumstances enabled them to follow him. The episode concludes with nearly all disciples gathered in the upper room, though Thaddeus remains absent, creating tension about his delay. Throughout the story, it emphasizes both the supernatural preparation for this crucial moment and the very human struggles of pride, fear, and faith that the disciples face.

DISCUSS

1. Mark received a vision or dream from God to prepare the upper room. Has God ever revealed something to you before it happened? Why do you think God reveals certain things to some people but not to others?
2. Have you ever considered the implications of Jesus washing the disciples' feet? What can we learn and apply to our own lives from Jesus' choice to wash the disciples' feet?

Discuss

3. The disciples were busy preparing the house for Passover, but their work wasn't needed as Jesus had other plans. What does this reveal to us about being busy and hectic in God's service?
4. This episode examined the steps that were important in the path of the disciples coming to know Jesus. Think about your own faith story. Where can you see times that God provided a path for you to know Jesus? Where has God intentionally worked to bring you back to Him when things have gone astray?
5. Often, we hear people say that we need to "follow the desires of your heart." How does this differ from a biblical perspective? What in this episode reminds us that this could be incorrect?

Prayer

Heavenly Father, thank You for Jesus' example of servant leadership in washing His disciples' feet—help us to humble ourselves and serve others with the same love and grace. Just as You orchestrated the disciples' paths to faith and prepared that upper room through Mark's vision, continue to work in our lives and use us to bless others. In Jesus' name we pray, Amen.
